'Alumnus' Award Given

John Percell Carlton, 82, of Spartanburg, S.C., was named Gardner-Webb's "Alumnus of the Year" at the annual alumni banquet on campus May 11.

The announcement of his award, given by the college board of trustees, was a highlight of the banquet, at which three other alumni were honored, the college's new radio station was dedicated, and new alumni leaders were elected.

Carlton is one of the school's oldest former students. He was graduated from the institution known as Boiling Springs Boarding High School in 1912.

In his hometown, he is actively engaged in the city's beautification program. He is a past president of the Men's Garden Club and is known throughout the city as the "flower man" since he gives away hundreds of floral arrangements every year.

The more than 500 people attending the banquet honored him with a standing ovation when the award was announced.

The alumni association itself presented three distinguished service awards to former students. Mrs. Charles (Jo Lena) Balen of Columbia, S.C., was awarded the "service to denomination and church" award. Dr. Ralph Fells, Morganton dentist, was presented the "service to community" award, and George HONORED—John Percell Carlton, 82 acknowledges an ovation from fellow alumni after he was presented the "Alumnus of the Year" award by college president Dr. E. Eugene Poston, left. At age 82, Carlton combines his love for flowers with his love for fellow men, sharing the beautiful blossoms from his gardens with others throughout his home city of Spartanburg.

DEDICATION—Gardner-Webb's Dr. J. Ray Robinson and Mrs. Lee P. Franks of Hickory share in the moving dedication of the college's new FM radio station during the alumni banquet program. The station honors the memory of the late Mr. Franks and was made possible through gifts made by his family.

Library Opens

The entire college faculty—students, faculty, administration, staff and friends—joined in a massive library "moving day" operation in April. In shirt sleeves, they worked in two long lines to transport more than 60,000 books by hand from the old Dover Library on campus to the new $1,660,000 John S. Dover, Sr. Library about a city block away. The move was planned so that the college's library facilities could be reopened for use again as soon as possible. The transfer was smoothly and took on a festive air with food served "on the grounds" to the helpers. Members of the Dover family symbolically shared in the move to the beautiful new structure, which will be dedicated in the fall. The library has a total seating capacity of 460 for study, with an additional 118 seats in non-study areas that include a classroom, seminar-auditorium combination and a conference room. Its total book volume capacity is 100,000. The three floors encompass 45,000 square feet of floor space, and also include a music listening room, offices and processing areas, individually enclosed study areas and a room for special collections, in addition to book stacks and seating.

Station Dedicated

• The dinner was the occasion for the dedication of Gardner-Webb's new FM educational radio station in memory of the late Lee P. Frann of Hickory, whose family made the station possible through their financial gifts. Mr. Frann, a successful soft drink bottler in North Carolina, was killed in an automobile accident in 1970. Mrs. Frann, a member of the college's board of trustees, and other members of the family were present for the dedication service.

As Dr. J. Roy Robinson said in leading the service, "The Lee P. Frann Radio Station is a living example of how one may continue to influence the world for good even after he has departed this earthly plane. . . . Lee Frann served well here and his influence shall be felt through the voice of WGWF for many years to come."

Officers Named

• During the business session, alumni reflected a slate of officers with Jack Creech of Shelby continuing as president and Max Padgett of Forest City as vice president. Mr. Charles Bridges of Boiling Springs was re-elected secretary.

Alumni association directors named at the gathering include Troy Bridges of Spartanburg, S.C.; Julius Pileston of Charlotte, Rensie Price of Boiling Springs, Ryan Hendry of Greenville, S.C.; Charles Rabon of Columbia, S.C.; Jeff McNeill of Sanford, Alan Foxman of Rutherfordton, Billy Skyles of Boiling Springs and John Cantrell of Spartanburg, S.C., all named to one-year terms; and J.W. Abernathy III of Newton, David Withers of and Alan Meyhew of Charlotte, Betty Ranning Jones, Robert Porray and Earl W.

Spangler, all of Shelby, Dr. Helen Skiman of Greensboro, J.P. Carlen of Spartanburg, S.C., and Dr. Nolan Hovington of Nashville, Tenn., all named to three-year terms.

Reports

• In other banquet activities, alumni heard reports from college president Dr. E. Eugene Poston and director of development and alumni activities Jerry Walker.

The 50th anniversary class of 1914 and 10th anniversary class of 1949 were in special regalia, along with other classes ending in "4" or "9". In a unanimous vote, the association voted to welcome the Class of 1974 as new members. The graduating seniors were special guests.

Annual Fund Award Given

Gardner-Webb College's Annual Fund, a continuing project of the alumni association, has received some $20,000 in gifts thus far in the fiscal year. It was reported at the recent alumni banquet by Jerry B. Walker, director of development and alumni activities. This year's fund will be open through June 30 and gifts toward the goal still are encouraged, he added.

"The Annual Fund helps underwrite nearly every aspect of campus life," Walker said. "It means every student because it helps make up the difference between what a student pays and what it actually costs to provide him a college education. Your Annual Fund gifts are an investment in a greater Gardner-Webb, and we're grateful for each one of them."

Gifts can be mailed to the Annual Fund, Alumni Activities Office, Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, N.C. 28017.

Walker announced that the Class of 1969 won the Annual Fund Award for the best participation. The class' year was inscribed on the permanent "honor roll" trophy, and a special award was presented for the Class of '69's class agent for the past year, Mrs. A. B. Wood. The award, a plaque featuring the nation's currency, was accepted for Mrs. Wood by her classmate and new class agent, Mrs. Davis Jolley.

Gardner-Webb Singing Group On Summer Tour

Seven well-voiced college students, a piano, a guitar and a little recorded music . . . enthusiasm, prayer and Christian commitment. That's the formula for "A Touch of Joy."

"A Touch of Joy" is this summer's touring singing group from Gardner-Webb. Its 10-week tour of the southeastern United States will take the singers to more than 60 churches, camps and retreats. They'll be presenting a program of Christian music including spirituals, soft gospel rock, old favorites and religious folk music.

The group's name comes from the singers' goal: to present to their hearers a "touch of the joy" that only Christ can give.

Here's the schedule for "A Touch of Joy":

May 29—Mt. Herman Baptist Church, Danville, Va.

May 30—North Elm Baptist Church, Richmond, Va.

May 31-June 2—London Bridge Baptist Church, Virginia Beach.

June 2—Durham Memorial Baptist Church, Durham.

June 5—Lexington Avenue Baptist Church, High Point.

June 6—Immanuel Baptist Church, Raleigh.

June 7—Temple Baptist Church, Durham.

June 8—Pineah Baptist Church, Smithfield.

June 9—Love Memorial Baptist Church, Goldsboro.

June 10—N.C. Baptist Assembly, Southport.

Commencement, 1974: A Momentous Day

Capped and gowned in the tradition of commencement pomp and circumstance, 218 seniors received degrees in Gardner-Webb's May 12 graduation exercises, held under sunny skies on the campus green. The graduates heard Dr. Edwin H. Young, pastor of First Baptist Church of Columbia, S.C., urge them to face life ahead with "courage and conviction."

Secular and spiritual courage gave life depth and meaning, he said.

An audience of more than 3,000 gathered for the ceremony, which closed a weekend of commencement events.

Earlier on graduation Sunday, seniors and their families were honored at a breakfast at which Mrs. Helen Lowery, assistant professor of business, was principal speaker.

Recessional services followed. The Rev. T. Robert Mullinax, executive secretary of the Council on Christian Higher Education in Raleigh, gave the address.

"In this kind of world we do not sow and reap the same day," Mullinax told the graduates. "We owe it to those who came before us . . . We can never repay them, but we can do all we can toward making this a better world for those who follow us."

On Saturday preceding commencement, 20 past winners of the coveted Ruggles Citizenship Awards were honored at a luncheon sponsored by L.R. Harrell of Raleigh. The award is given annually to the outstanding male graduate.

That afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. E. Eugene Foster were hosts at a reception for graduates and their families. The event was held at Webb Knoll, the college president's home.

Three Honorary Degrees Awarded

During commencement exercises, Gardner-Webb honored three distinguished men with honorary doctor's degrees, cited three members of the faculty and staff for service, and recognized seven students for academic and citizenship achievements.

The three honorary doctorates were awarded to James Neville Terrell, who served Gardner-Webb for more than 20 years as a member of the faculty and dean; the Rev. Charles Q. Carter, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro, Ga., and W.B. Camp, a Gaffney, S.C., native who now is a California businessman.

• Deen Terrell served as dean from 1945 to 1962 and as professor of history before his 1971 retirement. He has been active for many years in the Helling Springs Methodist Church and area civic organizations. He was awarded the Distinguished Alumnus Award by Western Carolina University in 1968.

• The Rev. Mr. Carter served as pastor of Cherryhills First Baptist Church for 10 years before going to Jonesboro last fall. A graduate of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and Mercer University, he served as the first chairman of Gardner-Webb's ministerial board of associates.

• Mr. Camp gained wide recognition as a farmer after moving to California several years ago. Formerly in charge of the cooperative testing of field crops for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, he now lives in San Joaquin Valley and serves as an agronomist in charge of cotton breeding and growing experiments. He and Mrs. Camp established the W.B. and Lorne Camp Gardner-Webb Loan Fund two years ago with a gift of $20,000.

Others Cited

• The three college faculty members honored for service upon their retirements were Mrs. Gladys Morris, assistant professor of English for the past 16 years; Dr. Marie Soares, assistant professor of Spanish who came to Gardner-Webb some 10 years ago after leaving Calis; and Leonard Allan, former bookstore manager, retiring after 27 years' service that included duties as business manager and superintendent of building and grounds.

The Rev. Jerry C. Burlison of Crossman was awarded the Higgins Citizenship Medal. Donna Kay Abrams of Sealing Springs won both the Etta L. Curtis Citizenship Medal and the Senior Scholastic Award. The junior award went to Christine Sell Dukes of Sealing Springs. Mary Helen Hutchinson of Mt. Gilead won the sophomore award, and Sarah Louise Ornsaad of Columbus won the freshman award.

DR. GENE WASHBURN ACCEPTS AWARD
... Bulldog of the Year

Sports Awards, Honors Presented

One of professional football's most outstanding players, Bart Starr, former Green Bay Packer quarterback, told a record crowd of more than 600 at the Gardner-Webb sports banquet that "one word is the key to success in any field of endeavor, 'attitude'."

Starr, now a Green Bay businessman, was the featured speaker on the program which included presentation of awards to athletes and friends of the college.

Dr. Gene Washburn, Bowling Springs physician and also Bulldog physician, was named recipient of the coveted "Bulldog of the Year" award. Dr. Washburn is a former Bulldog athlete and has been the team physician for more than 10 years.

Special guests for the night included Zeno C.R. Hansen, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Mack Truck, Inc. He was presented with a President's award and Bulldog Life Award. G.W. Athletic Director, Eddie Holbrook, R. Patrick Spangler, and Starr were also honored with the President's Award. Bulldog Life Awards also went to Thomas J. McGraw, the college's executive vice president, and Spangler.

Ray Bradley, a former student, was recognized for his part in the designing of the new G-W symbol, The Runner Bulldog.

Senior golfer John Matteson of Yorkstown, Va., will represent GWC spring sports in national competition. Matteson's 141 score in the NAIA District 26 tournament earned him medals honors and a trip to the national tournament in Aberdeen, S.D., June 2-7. The Bulldogs finished the season with a 17-3-1 record. The highlights of the season for Coach Garland Allen's golfers was a five stroke win over Southern Conference champion Appalachian.

The Bulldog track program made its best showing since becoming a senior college. The

Good Season

Coach Jerry Bryson's baseball team earned a district play off berth for the second consecutive year. The Bulldogs' 15-4 record in regular season play gave the Bulldogs third seed in the tournament.

Having reached the play-offs, however, the Bulldogs lost to Pfeiffer 4-0 and High Point 8-1.

Catcher Gary Robinson led the Bulldogs in batting with a .485 regular season batting average. The Charlotte youth was a first team selection on the All-District 26 team. The Bulldogs cruised the district tournament with a .547 batting average.

Spring Sports Concluding Season

Bulldog endermen finished the season with a 3-3 record. Coach Bill Freeman's Bulldogs placed sixth in the District 26 track meet. The sixthplace finish was the Bulldogs' highest finish in the annual event. The Bulldogs placed second in the Bulldog Invitational. Many school records were broken during the '74 season.

The tennis team finished the season with a 5-3 record. The Bulldog netters finished in fine style, winning their last three matches against UNC-Asheville, Mars Hill and Lenoir Rhyne.
